2024 ANNUAL MEETING – PHILADELPHIA, PA
April 11-14, 2024

CONFERENCE THEME:
RECONCEPTUALIZING MEASUREMENT THEORY AND PRACTICE TO REDUCE INEQUITIES

The National Council on Measurement in Education (NCME) is a nonprofit organization representing measurement scientists and practitioners who work together to advance theory and applications of educational measurement to benefit society. The NCME Annual Meeting typically attracts over 1,200 attendees including:

- University faculty
- Test developers
- Federal, state, and local testing and research directors
- Technical advisors for national, state, and commercial testing programs
- Professional evaluators
- Testing specialists in business, industry, education, and community programs
- Licensure, certification, and credentialing professionals
- Graduate students from educational, psychological, and other measurement programs

Stakeholders looking for authoritative expertise and leading scholarship on measurement turn to NCME and our members for sound advice and guidance. Our members come to our Annual Meeting to share advances, exchange best practices, and shape the future.

Sponsors enjoy significant benefits and visibility at the Annual Meeting and beyond!
