

James Foley

CPPO, CPPB

James Eagen Foley is the Deputy Chief Procurement Officer for Maricopa County. James leads the day-to-day operations of the procurement group providing strategic management of the county's $600 - $850 million in annual purchases of goods, services and construction related needs for County departments.

Prior to joining Procurement Services James was the Deputy Director for the County's Facilities Management Department, which manages over 10 million square feet of space and had an annual operating budget in excess of $200 million. During that period he was part of the initial team for the development of the County's largest capital project, the $340 million, South Court Tower.

James has over 17 years of experience in public purchasing and finance. James holds a bachelor's degree in Accounting from Temple University, a master's degree in Finance and Investments from Marywood University, and has completed his CPPO and CPPB certifications.

In addition to serving as the County's representative on the U.S. Communities Advisory Board, James is also a member of Finance and Budget committee for NIGP, The Institute for Public Procurement.