

LANA CONFORTI

---

Lana Conforti is an Economist for the Producer Price Index (PPI) Program of the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), where she has worked for 10 years. In a previous role, she assisted customers daily with interpreting and applying PPIs, often for contract price adjustments. Lana's current role is in systems development and data-driven process measurement for the PPI Program. She is an active leader in the PPI Outreach group, which seeks out opportunities to share information on PPIs, such as through conferences. Lana earned a B.S. in Economics from Christopher Newport University and a Masters in Applied Economics from the University of Maryland. She is excited to be visiting Texas for the first time in the hometown of a couple of her favorite actors.
