

LLOYD WINDLE II, C.P.M., CPPB

Lloyd Windle is an experienced procurement professional currently employed with the City of Tucson. He has more than 17 years of combined private and public sector procurement experience. His current role at the City of Tucson is as Contract Administration Manager, where he is responsible for developing and implementing the newly created contract administration program. Lloyd has recently presented on contract administration at his local NIGP chapter and as a guest speaker to students at Pima Community College. As an active member of the Copper Chapter of NIGP, Lloyd has served the organization by participating on many committees, Chairing the most successful annual reverse trade show, serving as past Vice President of Membership, and now leading the organization as its President. He is developing partnerships with Pima Community College and NIGP to bring more visibility to and education about public sector procurement. He is a proud Wildcat having graduated from the University of Arizona with a bachelor's degree in Business Administration. He holds professional certifications as a Certified Professional Public Buyer and Certified Purchasing Manager.