

SCOTT SMITH, MBA

Scott Smith is responsible for Gordian's Enterprise Business Group. He has nearly 20 years of industry experience with enterprise software and information services companies. Scott has extensive leadership experience in Sales and executive management positions, including serving as the president and general manager of a multinational firm delivering business information services. Prior to joining the industry, Scott was on active duty service with the United States Navy and is a combat-decorated Naval Aviator. He holds bachelor's degrees in economics and English from Duke University and a Master of Business Administration from Old Dominion University