

John Walters

John is co-founder of Periscope Holdings, the custodian of the NIGP Code. He has been working in the public procurement space for 21 years, including time as the President of the NIGP Code Services group. He has consulted with states, cities, counties and educational entities on the use of the NIGP Code to improve procurement processes and provide spend insights using the Code. His NIGP Code projects include the states of Texas and Washington as well as the City of Houston. Recently, he executed spend analysis projects for Maine and Maryland using the Code. He has published several articles regarding the use of the Code and delivers training seminars to promote its use. He earned his bachelor's of business administration and masters of business administration from Mississippi State University.