

Sam Adhikari

Sam Adhikari is a supply chain and privacy/security specialist, product developer, and researcher at Syssoft corporation. He holds an advanced graduate degree from Stanford University and performs research and development with supply chain application modeling with Excel and database management systems, and data analytics. He is a Certified Information Systems Auditor(CISA) specializing in supply chain, eProcurement, and contract management related enterprise level cybersecurity. He is one of the original architects of eRFP proposal evaluation systems developed at Syssoft Corporation. He has 30+ years of experience in security and privacy implementation, business modeling, RFP evaluation, cost model implementation, supply chain management, and contract management.