Histotechnologist Work Environments

When selecting your work environment in the demographics section of the candidate form please refer to the list below for definitions of each environment.

- Hospitals: Histotechnologists often work in the local community and large metropolitan hospitals with an in-house department of pathology.
- Private Laboratories: Private laboratories are established by medical facilities to perform tests on the patients in their practice. Histotechnologists process the tissue samples that are procured from within the network of clinics many of which focus on specialized care including gastroenterology, urology and dermatopathology.
- Reference Laboratories: Reference labs provide histology services for various external clients, including clinical trial requests, veterinary offices, scientific studies, doctors' offices, hospitals, etc. Large reference labs are emerging in the research area in the form of Laboratory Developed Tests.
- Academic and Research Facilities: On the cutting edge of histology, academic hospitals and universities work on immunology, antitumor immunity, molecular diagnostics, microbial pathogenesis, antigen selection, t-cell development, and more.
- Contract Research Organization: Contract Research Organizations (CRO) provide histology services to pharmaceutical, biotechnology, and medical device industries, as well as government and academia, outsourced on a contract basis. Histotechnologists perform routine histology procedures for studies or more specialized procedures involving specialized trimming and processing techniques, IHC, molecular techniques, and image analysis with some procedures requiring method development.
- Pharmaceutical Companies: Histotechnologists play a vital role in developing drugs designed to treat the diseases their profession identifies. Knowing how tissues and antibodies respond to various chemicals is essential in determining whether a treatment will be effective.
- Government Agencies: Histotechnologists employed by the government include the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Federal Drug Administration, National Institutes of Health, the United States Department of Agriculture, and various state Bureaus of Investigation.

Addendum B

Governance Committee Overview

The President Elect is the Ex Officio Governance Committee Chair. The NSH Governance Committee is responsible for aiding and enhancing the ability of the Board to provide leadership for the Society. The committee is responsible for overseeing the interpretation of the Bylaws should questions arise from the membership and making amendment recommendations to the membership for consideration and acceptance. The committee is responsible for developing board recruitment, cultivation, and vetting methods and proposing an annual nominating slate for officer, board member, audit, and governance committee elections.

Responsibilities

- Committee members will aid in cultivating, identifying, and vetting the slate for the annual election process.
- Committee members will participate in meetings called by the Chair and provide timely feedback as requested.
- Committee members will review and test the annual ballot in collaboration with the CEO.
- Committee members will receive and review any requests or concerns about the interpretation of the Society's bylaws.

Time Commitment

- Governance Committee members should plan to spend two to four hours monthly. The time commitment will vary by the annual governance calendar.

Term and Eligibility

- Must be a current member of the Society for a minimum of two years with no conflicts of interest.
- Committee members are elected by the membership to serve a three-year term.
- Committee members are ineligible to run for national office while serving on the Governance Committee.

General Requirements

- NSH committee work and correspondence take place via a private community on The Block and project management software, Asana. The chair and committee members must have access to email and the internet to access The Block and Asana.
- NSH uses Zoom for its committee meetings. It is free of charge to download the app. Please get in touch with the CEO if you have questions on how to use the app.
