NHSPE Awards North Country Teacher for STEM Excellence

Sandy Fitzmorris, technology teacher at the Milan Village School, was selected as the winner of the 2021 Science Technology Engineering and Math (STEM) award by the New Hampshire Society of Professional Engineers. The Milan resident works with the Lego League of the North Country and coordinates the After School STEM program with the White Mountain Science initiative, reports the Berlin Sun. “Sandy is a great representative of the North Country. She is truly the heart of STEM education and this award is well deserved,” said School Administrative Unit 20 Superintendent David Backler.

Water Treatment Facility Cleans Up PFAS

A $13 million water treatment facility that will clean up contaminated water at Pease International Tradeport has been completed, according to the Union Leader. Portsmouth leaders, Air Force officials, and New Hampshire’s congressional delegation celebrated the plant’s completion, marking it as a major milestone in addressing PFAS in water at Pease and in other parts of the state and the country. The contamination at Pease, the article says, was linked to firefighting foam from the former US Air Force base. Seven years ago, Portsmouth’s deputy director of public works was notified by the state for the first time that the Haven Well, one of the wells serving the Pease drinking water system, had tested above the preliminary health advisory limit for PFAS.

New Jersey Student Wins MATHCOUNTS Title

Marvin Mao, an eighth-grade student from Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey, was named the 2021 Raytheon MATHCOUNTS National Competition champion during the virtual event held May 8-10. Mao will receive a $10,000 scholarship.

This year's national competition engaged 224 students representing 56 US states and territories in four rounds: Sprint, Target, Team, and Countdown.

The runner-up for the individual competition was Bohan Yao, an eighth-grader from Redmond, Washington, who will receive a $5,000 scholarship. Ten finalists will receive $3,000 scholarships.

Mao is also a member of the first-place New Jersey team consisting of fellow eighth-grade students Evan Fan, Ying Lu, and Alexander Wang. The team will receive a trip to the US Space Camp. The California team finished in second place and the New York team placed third.

California Team Captures Math Video Award

A video combining algebraic equations with an exciting heist won the 2021 Math Video Challenge for a team representing the Elite Academic Academy in southern California.

Team members Bradley Carpiuc (eighth grade), Madelynn Carpiuc (sixth grade), Zoe Kim (eighth grade) and Cole Seelman (sixth grade) each won a $1,000 college scholarship for their "The Sanitizer Stealers" video during the challenge finals on May 9. The video is about a group of thieves who steal overpriced hand sanitizer from a store.

The crime is caught on camera, and the owner uses math to piece together just how much the thieves got away with.

The Math Video Challenge is a national program sponsored by MATHCOUNTS and the Department of Defense (DoDSTEM). More than 200 students who advanced to the national level of the MATHCOUNTS competition voted to determine the winning video.

Nominations Open for the QBS Awards

Every year, ACEC and NSPE partner to administer the QBS Awards, recognizing public and private entities that make exemplary use of the qualifications-based selection process at the federal, state, and local levels. Award winners serve as examples of how well the QBS process works, and they help promote the practice in jurisdictions that do not use or underuse QBS to procure engineering services.

ACEC and NSPE are now seeking nominations for the 2021 QBS Awards by the deadline Monday, June 7. The awards are administered in three categories: federal government sector; state government sector; and nongovernment sector.

Nominations may originate from an ACEC member organization, an NSPE state society, a public or private entity, or an individual in the public or private sector. Self-nomination is not permitted.
