

To All Staff, Faculty and Students:

The Nebraska Collaborative of Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing presents: “Reviving Scholarship after the Pandemic”. This program is open to staff, faculty and students interested in research and evidence-based practices. The event will be held on Tuesday, October 5, 2021. It will be held live at the UNMC campuses, Nebraska Methodist College, and the College of Saint Mary with virtual connections for those across the state. Save the date and watch for more program information as it becomes available.

Our program will include a keynote address from Laura Cullen, DNP, RN, FAAN from the University of Iowa on the Implementation of Evidence into Clinical Practice. The keynote is being supported by Gamma Pi At-Large, the chapter of Sigma at the University of Nebraska Medical Center and the College of Saint Mary.

We are inviting you to submit an abstract for an oral poster presentation that pertains to any research project you are working on or may have recently completed. Three or four abstracts will be chosen for oral presentations. The walking poster is a brief, prerecorded oral presentation approximately 10-12 minutes in length that highlights the research and findings. There will be a brief time period for questions after the presentations.

Please share this with your staff and any other professionals you think may have an interest! This conference is open to outside co-presenters and attendees as well.

Nebraska Methodist College Professional Development is providing the continuing education for the program.

Contact hours awarded for nursing and education. Nursing: 2.0 contact hours awarded. Nebraska Methodist College Professional Development is approved as a provider of nursing continuing professional development by the Midwest Multistate Division, an accredited approver by the American Nurses Credentialing Center’s Commission on Accreditation.

Submitting Your Abstract:

- Once you begin the online submission process you CANNOT save your work. That is why we recommend you to please use the attached word document to preview the submission form and prepare.
- To submit an abstract, click HERE. The deadline for submissions is August 30, 2021
- If you have questions, please contact pd@methodistcollege.edu.