Your Member Assistance Program

Everyone occasionally experiences personal and family-related problems which can make life a difficult balancing act. The New York State Veterinary Medical Society (NYSVMS) has chosen to provide a professional counseling resource which is compassionate and responsive in assisting you through difficult times and situations. Stress due to unresolved personal problems, family concerns, or problems with substance abuse impose emotional burdens which, if untreated, can deteriorate both your personal happiness and success in life.

NYSVMS selected an organization experienced in providing specialized emotional assistance for veterinary professionals working in demanding and, at times, critical environments.
