MATT CLARK

VP OF OUTREACH

Matthew Clark is a seasoned product professional currently driving innovation and execution as a Product Leader at Comcast. With over a decade of experience across enterprise software, IT, and digital transformation, Matthew excels in aligning product strategy with business objectives to deliver measurable results and customer value. His leadership has been instrumental in fostering growth and operational efficiency at Comcast, AT&T, PNC, and CGI.

Through his own consultancy, Matthew has made a meaningful impact through The HCD Experience, championing human-centered design to create impactful user experiences, and MedHound, a non-profit product dedicated to simplifying access to hard-to-find medications. Matthew's passion lies in building products that solve real problems, enhance customer experiences, and drive innovation both in the industry and the community.
