AIG has declared that Underwriters need new skill sets moving forward.

"..agile with data, and analytics. And algorithmic processes. So they become part actuary, part data scientist.." -

Brian Duperreault

- What are the Skills that we as consumers need to engage this new world?
- Do you have the tools to negotiate, and manage the conversation?

We will be fortunate to have two industry leaders to address these issues:

Alexander R. Baugh

AIG

Chief Executive Officer, North America General Insurance

Lex Baugh has been with AIG 34 years. He has spearheaded the design of AIG studies, pilots, and partnerships that explore the impact of innovative technology on the future of insurance, from wearable devices and data analytics, to industrial IoT and autonomous vehicles.

Joseph C. Peiser

Willis Towers Watson

Executive Vice President, Head of Broking, North America

Joe Peiser has been in the insurance business for over 30 years. He is currently responsible for the brokering strategy across all Property & Casualty lines for WTW North America. Joe has been involved in cutting edge risk transfer and risk financing program designs throughout his career.
