Panelists:

John Lundy Senior Portfolio Manager, First Merchants Bank

John has spent over 20 years directly serving clients with their financial planning, trust, and investment needs.

Brian Schneider Director of Investments, Federal Home Loan Bank of Indianapolis

Starting as an analyst, Brian focused on bond issuance and interest rate swaps. Since 2010, his work is centered on money markets, mortgage trading, and asset/liability management.

Overview:

The Federal Reserve sets monetary policy to influence the amount of money and credit in the U.S. economy. Our panelists will discuss how the Fed's policies have evolved since the Great Recession, how that has impacted their institution and how they serve their clients, the direction of interest rates, and how the financial services industry will have to adapt to changing trends and technology.
