

WITH MEGAN WILLIAMS

Join us for an insightful economic update as we explore the trends, opportunities and challenges expected to shape the economy in 2027. Megan Williams with the Federal Reserve Bank of Kana City will examine key topics including inflation, interest rates, the labor market, housing, consumer spending, financial markets and the potential impact of government policies and global events. Don't miss this opportunity to hear expert analysis, ask questions, and gain valuable perspective on what may lie ahead in 2027.

Megan Williams is Associate Economist and Senior Manager in the Regional Affairs department at the Kansas City Fed's Oklahoma City Branch office. In this role, she is responsible for current monetary policy research, district economic surveys, and a variety of economic research projects. She also serves as Secretary for the Oklahoma City Branch Board of Directors. Williams joined the Federal Reserve Bank in 2000 as an Analyst in the Retail Payments Support department, and assumed her current role in March 2006. She holds a bachelor's degree in Finance from Oklahoma State University and a MBA degree from the University of Oklahoma. Willaims serves on the Board of Directors of the Oklahoma Council on Economic Education and is a former Board Chair.
