THE INFLATION CHALLENGE: PERSPECTIVES OF FED DISSENTER

THOMAS HOENIG

Please join the RMA Oklahoma Chapter in this co-sponsored event with the RMA Rocky Mountain Chapter. You are invited for a live streamed event featuring Tom Hoenig – the infamous Fed Dissenting Voter, former KC Fed President and former Vice Chair of the FDIC. With inflation at a 40-year high and back-to-back interest rate hikes, the Fed seemingly feeling the need to 'catch up' to regain control of inflation and inflation expectations. A rapid-fire pace of aggressive interest-rate heightens the chances of a policy misstep that could be enough to topple the economy into a recession.

TOM HOENIG

President, Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, 1991-2011

Thomas Hoenig served as President of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City from 1991 to 2011. He was the first president to rise through the ranks of the organization and became well known for his views on the "too big to fail" issue and his dissenting votes on the Federal Open Market Committee in 2010. In the aftermath of the 2007 recession, Hoenig was thrust upon a national stage as he spoke out frequently about the financial crisis and its causes, as well as the response to the crisis in terms of both regulatory changes and monetary policy. He cast the lone dissenting vote against the FOMC's easy money policies at each of the eight FOMC meetings in 2010 and was troubled by the FOMC's stated promise of keeping the federal fund rates at a historic low for "an extended period." Following his retirement from the Bank in 2011, Hoenig served as Vice Chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.
