

Interested in viruses, invasive plants,
gut microbiomes, climate change,
pathogenesis, human evolution?

Want to do research in one of these exciting areas of research?

You're invited to attend the...

Howard University-Ohio State University
Ecology and Evolutionary Sciences Minisymposium

Science talks on all of these topics and more will be given by OSU and HU faculty recruiting HU students to do summer and graduate research.

Wednesday, Sept. 13th 8³⁰-5³⁰
Just Hall 142 / 320

For more info,
contact Dr. Courtney Robinson
courtney.robinson@howard.edu

Supported by The National Science Foundation, OSU STEAM Factory,

Howard University, HU Department of Biology and the Howard University Chapter of Sigma Xi

Howard University – The Ohio State University Ecology and Evolutionary Sciences Mini-Symposium

September 13, 2017

Time	Event	Location
8:30-9:25 am	Breakfast and Opening Opening Remarks - Zakee Sabree, Department of Evolution, Ecology and Organismal Biology, OSU Welcome - Clarence M. Lee, Department of Biology, HU Faculty Introductions	Just Hall Conference Room (Rm 142)
9:30 -11:00 am	Session I Andreas Chavez, Department of Evolution, Ecology and Organismal Biology, OSU Janelle Burke, Department of Biology, HU Michael Ibba, Department of Microbiology, OSU	Just Hall Conference Room (Rm 142)
11:10 am - 12:00 pm	Coffee break/meetings with faculty and students	Just Hall Conference Room Faculty Offices Student Meet and Greet in Rm 132
12:10 - 1:00 pm	Session II Kelly Wrighton, Department of Microbiology, OSU Elizabeth Marschall, Department of Evolution, Ecology and Organismal Biology, OSU	Just Hall Rm 320
1:15 - 2:30 pm	Networking Lunch with HU Faculty Featured Speaker: Fatimah Jackson, Department of Biology, HU	Carnegie Building Conference Room A (invitation only)
2:45 - 4:15 pm	Session III Kenneth Hayes, Department of Biology, HU Maria Miriti, Department of Evolution, Ecology and Organismal Biology, OSU Matthew Sullivan, Department of Microbiology, OSU	Rm 320
4:15 - 5:00 pm	Coffee break/meetings with faculty and students	Just Hall Conference Room Faculty Offices (Rm 142)
5:15 - 5:30 pm	Closing Remarks Zakee Sabree and Clarence Lee	