

We are pleased to announce Jason Wos, Maintenance Manager, Constellium in Muscle Shoals, AL will be sharing “PM Optimization - More Than Just the Newest Buzz Word”.

How many people have every Preventive Maintenance (PM) task they will ever need for their plant? How many people never make any changes to their current PM's, not because they don't make the conscious effort but because they don't know what they don't know? How many people realize that your PM program is a living, breathing system and that through constant interaction, modification and input are you able to make a positive, productive impact in your organization? Come listen as I help you understand some of the myths about PM programs and how to overcome some of the easier roadblocks you might face. Establishing, building, managing a PM program may seem like a no brainer, but it sure is nice to have simple, easy steps to help you look at what you have and see if it is enough for what you want to do.

Jason Wos is responsible for all Maintenance techs, all tooling techs, brick mason techs and engineers for the Cast House. Jason has over 25 years' experience in Maintenance working in automotive, steel, food processing and chemical processing to name a few. As a veteran of the Army he also brings his leadership experiences into play. He enjoys kayaking and playing board games.
