SPE NE Introduction

The SPE NE Section works closely with industry, government, professional institutes and academia to advance the learning of its members in all aspects of the energy industry offshore, onshore and internationally. Our members are active in a wide range of professions within the industry. We hold cross disciplinary seminars and social activities in our section.

Our mission is to provide means for collecting, disseminating and exchanging technical information and industrial social connections concerning the development of oil and gas resources for the public benefit, and providing opportunities to maintain and upgrade individual technical competencies and career progression in the energy industry.
