

2022 Scholarship Recipients

- Mychal Kearns
 - Penn State University
 - Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering; Minor in Business and Finance
 - Anticipated Graduation Date: Spring 2024
 - Why did you choose PNGE?
 - I was highly captivated by the concept of energy and anything concerned with the earth. I am certainly up for the challenge and beyond excited to take part in this movement.
- Jason McIlvain
 - Slippery Rock University
 - Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering
 - Anticipated Graduation Date: Spring 2023
 - Why did you choose PNGE?
 - One of my biggest motivations as a pursue a career in petroleum engineering is to contribute one day to providing these people with energy.
- Yu Zhang
 - St. Francis University
 - Petroleum and natural gas engineering; Minor in Mathematics
 - Anticipated Graduation Date: Spring 2023
 - Why did you choose PNGE?
 - I want to design more economical and environmentally friendly drilling methods. I also want to discover cleaner energy. I believe that energy is the most important driving force for the development of the world in the future.
- Charles Pelsang
 - St. Francis University
 - Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering; Minors in Mathematics & Physics
 - Anticipated Graduation Date: Spring 2023
 - Why did you choose PNGE?
 - Wanted to help the community and even the world by supplying the energy and products it needs for others to operate their lives and jobs more easily and efficiently.
- Kory Kearns
 - Penn State University
 - Petroleum and Natural Gas Engineering
 - Anticipated Graduation Date: Spring 2024
 - Why did you choose PNGE?
 - I want to be a part of the era where engineers go beyond the limits to be cleaner, prolific, and efficient in extracting such a vital component of our civilization. I believe that I can make a change in this industry.