

Partnership Offer 2025

International Student Petroleum Congress

Kraków 1-4 April 2025

Where East meets West

The East Meets West Congress makes its much-anticipated return after several years of hiatus. For over fifteen years, this event has been a cornerstone gathering for aspiring engineers across Europe, marking a key date in their annual calendars. Traditionally, it has served as a global hub for technology students to come together, exchange knowledge, and share experiences.

This year, the Congress broadens its reach by extending invitations to young professionals from the Oil & Gas industry. Hosted in conjunction with the Oil and Gas Conference at AGH University in Krakow, East Meets West offers an exceptional platform for students and professionals at every stage of their careers.

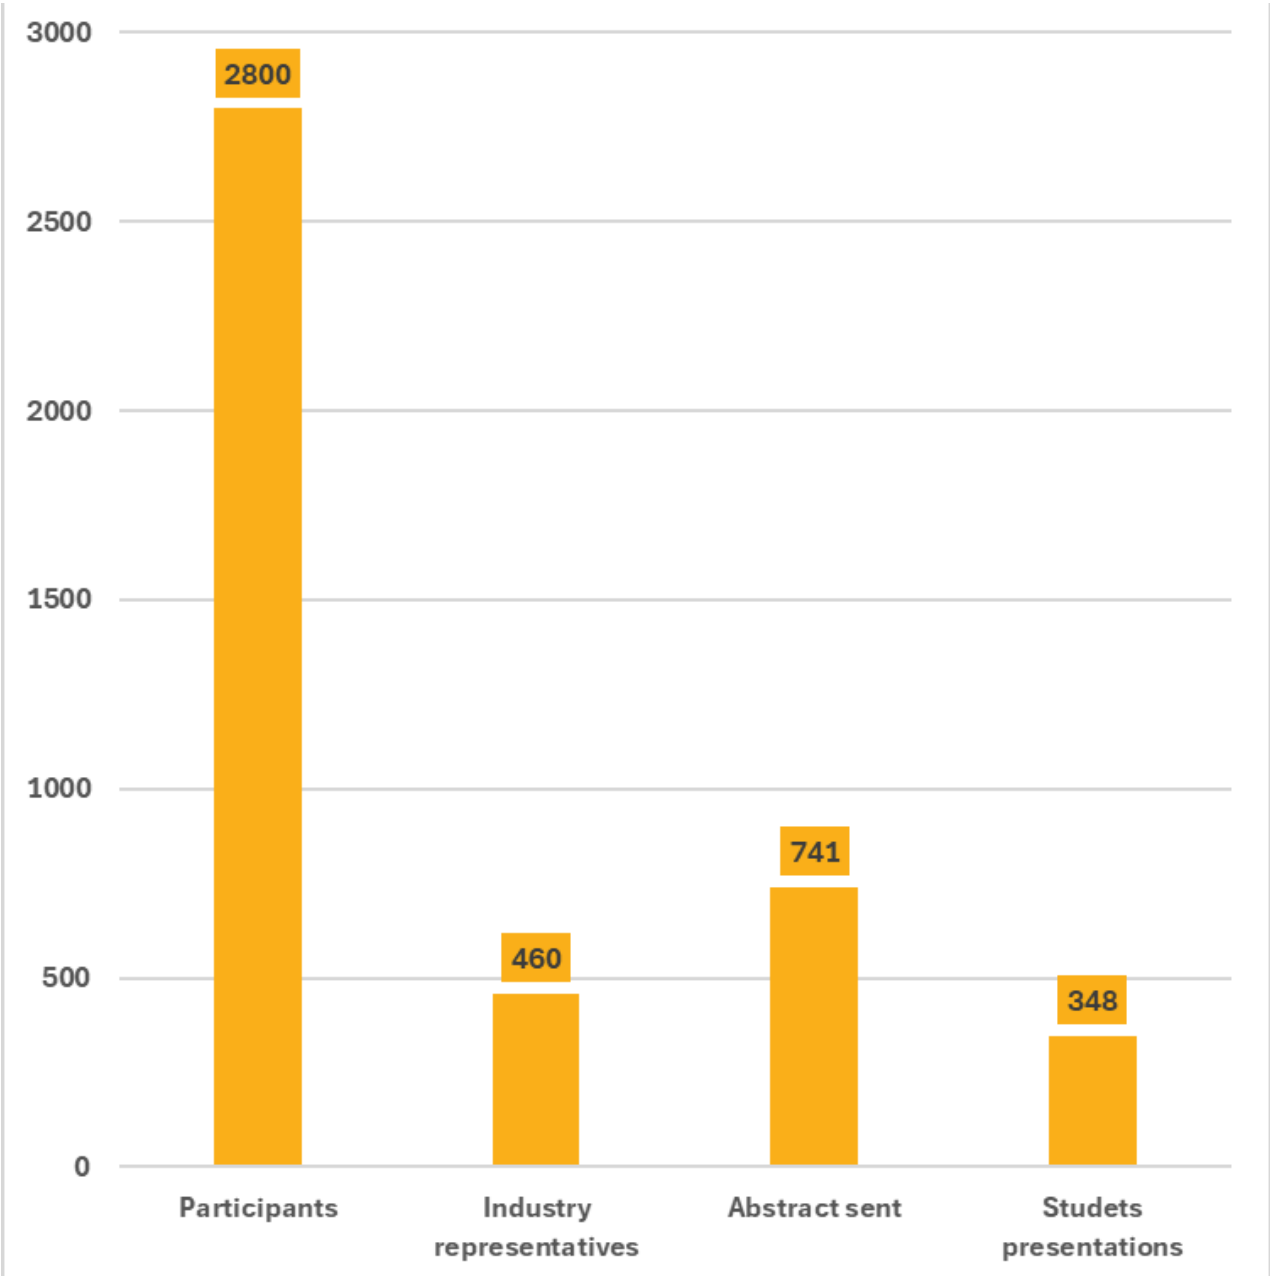

This unique convergence creates an ideal opportunity for your company to increase its visibility and engage with the future leaders of the industry.

Krakow: City Where History Meets Future

Krakow, renowned as one of Europe's most picturesque cities, enchants visitors with its stunning architecture, captivating ambiance, and rich cultural heritage. Once the capital of Poland, this historic city has evolved into a dynamic hub for students, artists, and scholars, seamlessly blending its majestic past with a lively academic and creative spirit. It's a place where many who visit find themselves reluctant to leave. Balancing tradition with innovation, Krakow epitomizes the essence of "Where East Meets West."

East Meets West in numbers over the years

Innovation

This year, East Meets West will explore the challenges and opportunities of the Fourth Industrial Revolution. The Congress will focus on shaping the future of the Oil & Gas Industry through discussions on digital transformation, machine learning, and artificial intelligence. Designed as a dynamic exchange of ideas, it aims to unite the innovative energy of students with the experienced insights of industry professionals.

Unity

The Congress presents an excellent opportunity for young minds and experienced professionals to come together, for students to meet potential employers, and for the industry to engage with future business partners.
