

Kimberly Read, PhD, CRA

Assistant Director, Coordinator for Research Administration | University of South Florida

Kimberly Read, PhD, is the Assistant Director for the Florida Center for Inclusive Communities, a University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities Education, Research, and Service, and the Coordinator for Research Administration for Child & Family Studies at the University of South Florida. Dr. Read has almost thirty years of experience in research administration both in non-profit and higher education settings. Her PhD is in higher education administration and she holds an MBA. She has been a Certified Research Administrator since 2010. Dr. Read has been a member of SRA for the past ten years. She has extensive teaching experience in research administration for business and research administrators as well as research active faculty. She has presented at SRAI sections meetings covering the topics of mentorship, F&A costs, and funding development. She has also led an SRAI webinar on identifying funding opportunities. She is actively involved in the Pre-Award/Research Development working group within the Education and Professional Development Committee. She has a case study entitled “Arrested Research” that addresses the legal and career impacts of the increased regulations surrounding export controls for research. The study was published in 2014 in the book, Case Studies for the New Professor: Surviving the Jungle of the Academy.