

Call for Proposals: ABC 2025 Long Beach Panel
Panel Title: “How Do You Teach Perspectives Beyond Your Own?”
Deadline: April 7, 2025

In times of increasing polarization and scrutiny around diversity-related work, educators continue to find ways to teach students about perspectives beyond their own.

This panel invites submissions from instructors who are developing, adapting, or reimagining pedagogies that explore difference—whether in culture, identity, worldview, lived experience, or communication style.

We welcome proposals that address, but are not limited to:

- Teaching strategies that encourage empathy, critical thinking, and respectful dialogue
- Assignments that help students examine perspectives different from their own
- Reflections on navigating institutional or political challenges around inclusive teaching
- Classroom experiences related to race, gender, class, disability, language, or global diversity
- The role of communication in advancing equity and understanding across difference
- The language used to describe this work

Submit your proposal by April 7, 2025 using the following link: <https://abc2025.exordo.com/>

This panel is sponsored by the ABC Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Committee.
