

Food service Design: RDNS in the Driver's Seat

Date: April 18 Time: noon - 1 p.m. (Central time)

This session will focus on how the operator/foodservice director can prepare and become involved in foodservice renovations or new construction projects. The dietitian-led design team at Rippe will lead attendees through lessons learned and ways to avoid common challenges during the design process. They will weave in trends they are seeing in both patient services and retail operations as they review two recently completed healthcare/retail projects. These samples will highlight the ability and role of RDNs in renovation and new construction projects that showcase culinary and operational best practices.

This session is a joint presentation between MFNS and Association for Healthcare Foodservice (AHF).

Learning Objectives

1. Verbalize the operator's role in foodservice design and why it is important.

- 2. Apply principles of steps to prepare for a project renovation or major construction.
- 3. Identify lessons learned and challenges to overcome in foodservice design.

Speakers

Christine Guyott, FCSI, RDN

Christine Guyott is an Executive Principal with Rippe Associates, a Minnesotabased foodservice design and consulting firm. She is a registered dietitian with over 30 years of experience in the foodservice industry, including more than 28 with Rippe. Christine heads Rippe's healthcare design team, which is involved in projects across the country ranging from large academic medical centers to critical access hospitals.

Rochelle Monahan, MBA, RDN

Rochelle Monahan is a Registered Dietitian with over 10 years of experience in the foodservice industry. She works primarily on healthcare projects where her operational knowledge informs each design.

Registration here:

https://www.eatrightstore.org/dpg-and-mig-products/mfns/foodservice-designs-rdns-in-the-drivers-seat

CPE Level: 2 CPEU: 1

To permanently unsubscribe from any and all MFNS DPG email communications, click here.

Copyright © 2024 Management in Food and Nutrition Systems, a Dietetic Practice Group of the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics. All rights reserved. You are receiving this email because you are a member of the MFNS DPG. This is a means for MFNS to communicate important events and needs to the MFNS membership.

To manage your MFNS email preferences, click here.

Do not reply to this message. For general questions about MFNS, email us here.

