

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is the current status of TNNA operations?

Due to financial challenges, compounded by the cancellation of the 2020 Summer Tradeshow due to the COVID-19 pandemic, TNNA is suspending business operations on April 30, 2020, until further notice.

Why was the 2020 Summer Tradeshow cancelled?

The decision was made to protect the health, safety and well-being of our attendees, teachers, exhibitors and staff. Additionally, Ohio Governor DeWine announced recently that the in-state shelter in place order would to be extended through May 1, therefore adding more uncertainty as to whether our show dates of May 27—31 would be viable. It goes without saying that this is a decision that was not entered into lightly, especially in this highly complex, quickly changing environment. We sincerely appreciate your support and understanding of this very difficult, but ultimately responsible decision.

My company had reserved exhibit space at the Summer Show; how do I claim a refund?

At this time, the organization is not in a position to make commitments regarding Summer Show refunds. Watch the TNNA Website for more information as it becomes available.

Will paid attendee and exhibitor badge registrations be refunded?

At this time, the organization is not in a position to make commitments regarding Summer Show refunds. Watch the TNNA Website for more information as it becomes available.

Will TNNA's 2020 Summer Tradeshow be rescheduled?

Based on TNNA's current financial state, as well as the logistics, costs and the uncertain timeline around when the COVID-19 outbreak will be sufficiently resolved, the 2020 Summer Trade Show will not be rescheduled for later this year.

When and where will the next TNNA event take place?

There are currently no future TNNA events scheduled.

If I have questions about TNNA's business operations who can I contact?

Those are best addressed to the TNNA in-box (info@tnna.org). Please know that the staff team is working remotely due to health concerns, and is responding as able due to the volume of communications at hand. E-mails will be addressed at the earliest opportunity, but we plan to use the TNNA Website as the primary communications channel for organizational news, announcements and instructions for TNNA members and stakeholders.
