URMIA Announces New Officers and Members for Board of Directors

Bloomington, Ind. – The University Risk Management & Insurance Association (URMIA) announces the election of Samuel Florio as president and Luke Figora as president-elect of the URMIA Board of Directors. Florio is the director of risk management and compliance at Santa Clara University; Figora is the assistant vice president for risk management and environmental health and safety at Northwestern University. Each will serve for one year in these leadership positions as part of a three-year term on the board's executive committee. Others who currently serve on the board's executive committee are Kathy Hargis of Lipscomb University, Tish Gade-Jones of the University of Nebraska, Susan Liden of Pacific Lutheran University and Michael J. Gansor of West Virginia University.

In addition, three URMIA members were newly elected to serve on the board of directors, which as a whole is composed of sixteen members. They are Julie Groves of Wake Forest University, Pamela Jeffreys of the University of Tennessee and Craig McAllister of Cornell University. They join current board members Allan Brooks of Chapman University, Courtney Davis of the University of Chicago, Chauncey Fagler of the Florida College System Risk Management Consortium, Keswic Joiner of the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities System, John McLaughlin of Arthur J. Gallagher & Co., Kimberly Miller of Ball State University and Lisa Zimmaro of Temple University.

The University Risk Management & Insurance Association is an international nonprofit educational association serving colleges, universities and related educational institutions. As the premier resource for advancing risk management principles and practices in higher education, URMIA represents over 2,400 individuals at more than 610 institutions of higher education, ranging from community colleges to large research universities. The association also offers individual memberships to college students, professors and retired risk managers. Affiliate memberships are available for employees of insurance companies, brokerages and consultancies. URMIA's administrative office is in Bloomington, Indiana.
