

National Day of Racial Healing FAQ

What is the National Day of Racial Healing?

The National Day of Racial Healing is an effort to advance racial healing in communities across the country to create environment where all children can thrive.

When is the National Day of Racial Healing?

Jan. 17, 2017. It will kick off a year-long effort to bring healing to the country, to build bridges and ensure a more perfect union and oneness within our country.

What should we be doing to acknowledge the National Day of Racial Healing?

We encourage all communities, organizations, and individuals to select a unique manner in which to acknowledge the national day of racial healing. We will be sharing several ideas generated by the more than 500 attendees of the Truth, Racial Healing and Transformation Summit held earlier this month.

How can we get the word out about our National Day of Racial Healing event?

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation will be providing you with a list of options/ideas/strategies that includes a variety of ideas on how to promote the event via social media and traditional media in each of your communities.

Where can we learn more about WKKF'S National Day of Racial Healing?

Visit the W.K. Kellogg Foundation website and click onto Racial Equity <https://www.wkkf.org/what-we-do/racial-equity/truth-racial-healing-transformation>.

What if we want more information?

The TRHT is a comprehensive effort, implemented community-by-community, to plan for and bring about transformational and sustainable change, to address the historic and contemporary effects of racism. You can visit <https://www.wkkf.org/what-we-do/racial-equity/truth-racial-healing-transformation> and print the implementation guide for greater detail.

National Day of Racial Healing FAQ

What is the desired outcome for the National Day of Racial Healing?

TRHT will focus on transformation in America - the nation was conceived in the constitution and built on a belief in racial hierarchy, a collective national consciousness that has dominated the educational, economic, social and legal discourse for centuries. TRHT will provide a collective commitment and long-term determination to embrace a new narrative for the nation, a belief in our common humanity.