

eliminating racism
empowering women
ywca

MISSION MINUTE: WHAT WOMEN WANT

eliminating racism
empowering women
ywca

MISSION MINUTE: WHAT WOMEN WANT

eliminating racism
empowering women
ywca

MISSION MINUTE: WHAT WOMEN WANT

eliminating racism
empowering women
ywca

MISSION MINUTE:
WHAT WOMEN WANT

YWCA USA's What Women Want 2018 National Survey: Key Findings

- Women report being concerned the most about their economic status, keeping their families safe from gun violence, and medical expenses that may become unaffordable.
- Women report experiencing discrimination because of their race as well as their gender. Among all women, 41% report experiencing discrimination because they are women, a 9% increase from 2012. Black women, Latinas, and Asian/Pacific Islander women report racial discrimination at even higher rates than gender discrimination: 61%, 60%, and 56% respectively.
- Women across major age, race, ethnic, and political groups agree that Congress should take action on several, wide-ranging policies. 90% of women want to see Congress strengthen equal pay laws and renew the Violence Against Women Act. And, a strong majority of women support legislation to increase access to child care, end racial profiling, provide paid family and medical leave, address women's physical and mental health needs, provide a path to citizenship for those protected by the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program and end family separations.
- YWCA is on a mission: More than two thirds of women, 68%, believe the issues YWCA is working on are very relevant for women and girls today.
- To Do: Find out about and support YWCA racial justice and civil rights, empowerment and economic advancement, health and safety programs for women and girls.

Learn more about the report at <https://www.ywca.org/what-we-do/advocacy/what-women-want-2018/>

YWCA USA's What Women Want 2018 National Survey: Key Findings

- Women report being concerned the most about their economic status, keeping their families safe from gun violence, and medical expenses that may become unaffordable.
- Women report experiencing discrimination because of their race as well as their gender. Among all women, 41% report experiencing discrimination because they are women, a 9% increase from 2012. Black women, Latinas, and Asian/Pacific Islander women report racial discrimination at even higher rates than gender discrimination: 61%, 60%, and 56% respectively.
- Women across major age, race, ethnic, and political groups agree that Congress should take action on several, wide-ranging policies. 90% of women want to see Congress strengthen equal pay laws and renew the Violence Against Women Act. And, a strong majority of women support legislation to increase access to child care, end racial profiling, provide paid family and medical leave, address women's physical and mental health needs, provide a path to citizenship for those protected by the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program and end family separations.
- YWCA is on a mission: More than two thirds of women, 68%, believe the issues YWCA is working on are very relevant for women and girls today.
- To Do: Find out about and support YWCA racial justice and civil rights, empowerment and economic advancement, health and safety programs for women and girls.

Learn more about the report at <https://www.ywca.org/what-we-do/advocacy/what-women-want-2018/>

YWCA USA's What Women Want 2018 National Survey: Key Findings

- Women report being concerned the most about their economic status, keeping their families safe from gun violence, and medical expenses that may become unaffordable.
- Women report experiencing discrimination because of their race as well as their gender. Among all women, 41% report experiencing discrimination because they are women, a 9% increase from 2012. Black women, Latinas, and Asian/Pacific Islander women report racial discrimination at even higher rates than gender discrimination: 61%, 60%, and 56% respectively.
- Women across major age, race, ethnic, and political groups agree that Congress should take action on several, wide-ranging policies. 90% of women want to see Congress strengthen equal pay laws and renew the Violence Against Women Act. And, a strong majority of women support legislation to increase access to child care, end racial profiling, provide paid family and medical leave, address women's physical and mental health needs, provide a path to citizenship for those protected by the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program and end family separations.
- YWCA is on a mission: More than two thirds of women, 68%, believe the issues YWCA is working on are very relevant for women and girls today.
- To Do: Find out about and support YWCA racial justice and civil rights, empowerment and economic advancement, health and safety programs for women and girls.

Learn more about the report at <https://www.ywca.org/what-we-do/advocacy/what-women-want-2018/>

YWCA USA's What Women Want 2018 National Survey: Key Findings

- Women report being concerned the most about their economic status, keeping their families safe from gun violence, and medical expenses that may become unaffordable.
- Women report experiencing discrimination because of their race as well as their gender. Among all women, 41% report experiencing discrimination because they are women, a 9% increase from 2012. Black women, Latinas, and Asian/Pacific Islander women report racial discrimination at even higher rates than gender discrimination: 61%, 60%, and 56% respectively.
- Women across major age, race, ethnic, and political groups agree that Congress should take action on several, wide-ranging policies. 90% of women want to see Congress strengthen equal pay laws and renew the Violence Against Women Act. And, a strong majority of women support legislation to increase access to child care, end racial profiling, provide paid family and medical leave, address women's physical and mental health needs, provide a path to citizenship for those protected by the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program and end family separations.
- YWCA is on a mission: More than two thirds of women, 68%, believe the issues YWCA is working on are very relevant for women and girls today.
- To Do: Find out about and support YWCA racial justice and civil rights, empowerment and economic advancement, health and safety programs for women and girls.

Learn more about the report at <https://www.ywca.org/what-we-do/advocacy/what-women-want-2018/>